

dreadWah

JOSEPH COLONEL AND GABRIEL LOPEZ EE '15

ADVISOR: TIM HOERNING

dreadWah is an automated Wah-Wah guitar effect. An Arduino controls two motors that randomly drag a piece of graphite across a drawing. The contact between the graphite and the drawing creates a resistance that varies the resonance and tone of the effect circuit. This effect circuit alters the input audio, similar to the effects used in Funk music.